CALIFORNIA'S CLIMATE CHANGE
ASSESSMENT

California's Climate Change Assessment provides scientific research and tools that explore the impacts and risks of climate change in California. The Climate Assessment leverages a community-driven research process that uplifts tribal expertise and local priorities.

The Climate Guardians Project is the result of a year-long artist-in-residence program intended to bring together art and climate change work. These guardians help us understand how climate change is affecting California and demonstrate the importance of strengthening resilience throughout the state.
